Do you live, work or own land in the City of Pembroke Pines? If so, have you ever had to consult with a City staff person about the zoning of your property, or about the requirements to get approval for development, redevelopment or improvements to your site or building?

And do you know how decisions about the use of land in the City are made? The answer to this question is: through the City's Zoning Code.

The City is gearing up to update this important document, which outlines, through the Zoning Map, how every parcel of land throughout the City may and may not be used. We need your ideas about how to improve the Code through the update process!
